Challenge from Calmette Heirs to Caillaux Is Expected Result of Charge

BY WILLIAM PHILLIP SIMMS (United Press Staff Correspondent.) PARIS, July 22.—Swiftly moving from the bitter strife of politics to the heartaches and terror of a wounded woman, facing what she believed to be certain destruction in a maelstrom of vindictive warfare, the trial of Mme. Joseph Caillaux filled the cup of Paris to overflowing today with a strange mixture of sentiment and hate.

Duel is Expected
A thrust of Maitre Chenu in remarking that the trial was becoming a political "whitewashing" for Caillaux, resulted in a heated exchange of words which was generally accepted as a prelude to a possible challenge for Caillaux to the attorney for the Calmette heirs.

Caillaux, white with anger, demanded to know whether Chenu would hold himself responsible for what he said. He replied that it would be a pleasure and that the former minister might seek satisfaction at any time.

As a result of his demand made upon the government, Maitre Labori, famed as the defender of Captain Dreyfus, today scored his first victory in the trial of Mme. Caillaux for the murder of Gaston Calmette.

Prosecutor Herbaux, on behalf of the government, declared in open court that the alleged Agadir occu-

T. R. TAKES FULL RESPONSIBILITY OF CANAL ZONE DEAL

Asks Senate Foreign Relations Committee for Permission to Tell It

OPPOSES PROPOSED TREATY

Letter Carries Intimation that Is Against $25,000,000 Colombian Treaty

NO ACTION BY THE COMMITTEE

Senator Stone as Chairman Unfavorably Inclined to Colonel's Plan

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Assuming full responsibility for all acts in connection with acquisition of the Panama canal zone, former President Roosevelt today asked that he be given a hearing before the senate foreign relations committee on the Colombian treaty proposing reparation. "I am solely responsible for what was done," said Roosevelt.

Colonel's Letter.
Colonel Roosevelt's letter to Chairman Stone was as follows: "Sir: If there is any intention of your committee to act favorably on the proposed treaty with Colombia by which we are to pay Colombia $25,000,000 and to express regret for the action taken in the past, I respectfully request to be heard thereon. I was president throughout the time of the negotiations with Colombia and then with Panama, by which we acquired the right to build the Panama canal. Every act of this government in connection with these negotiations and with other proceedings for taking possession of the canal zone and beginning the building of the canal was taken by my express direction, or else in carrying out a course of conduct, I, as president, had laid down. I had full knowledge of everything of any importance that was done in regard thereto by any agent of the government and I am solely responsible for what was done. The then secretary of state, John Hay, who is now dead, had almost as complete a first hand knowledge of what occurred, but no man now living or dead shared with me the responsibility for the action I took, save in a wholly minor degree.

"I request to appear before you to make a full statement of exactly what I did and what was done by my orders, to state the reasons therefor, and to answer any questions that your body, or the members of your body choose to put to me.

"Very respectfully,
(Signed)
"THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

No Action Taken.
No action was taken by the foreign relations committee today upon Roosevelt's request, a quorum not being present. Senator Stone said he had replied that approval of the committee must be secured before his request could be granted.

"I see no reason," he said, "for turning the foreign relations committee into a town hall proceeding. If Roosevelt has anything new to say on this situation that ought to be known by the president or the secretary of state or the senate, let him communicate these facts to them in writing."

HITS CIVIC CLUBS IN MADISON TALK

Former Port Washington Mayor Says They Are Useless; Stinging Reply

MADISON, Wis., July 22.—A severe attack on the functions and accomplishments of the Milwaukee City club was made this morning by ex-Mayor Harry Bolens of Port Washington, at the second day's meeting of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities. Personalities entered Mr. Bolens' caustic remarks in his arraignment of the "chief lobbyist" of the club and "his intolerant methods."

"If the City Club of Milwaukee is what these civic clubs purpose to be it is a good example to steer clear of," began Mr. Bolens. "It has favored more Tom fool legislation than I can remember. It is the most intolerant body of men in Milwaukee, its chief lobbyist is the most intolerant man who ever infested the legislative halls of Wisconsin. It was well stigmatized in a councilmanic report that it was a body of mutual admiration composition of men who could not possibly ever get into office. Civic clubs and theoretical clubs create more confusion than they produce results. They can hardly point to a single thing accomplished that would not have been accomplished without them."

Ex-Mayor Burt Williams of Ashland strode down the aisle. "I am not personally acquainted with the president of the City Club, but I know something of the work of that organization," he said. "If the president is so entirely lacking in qualifications of the office as stated by the last speaker, then I would nominate the man who just spoke for the office."

KILLS HIMSELF IN BOSTON JAIL CELL

Noted Crook Lawrence Robinson Cuts Throat to Save His Mother from Shame

BOSTON, Mass., July 22.—Lawrence "Diamond Chip" Robinson, on trial here for the murder of Inspector Norton, who sought to arrest him for a triple murder in Grand Rapids, Mich., was found dead in his cell today, having committed suicide by cutting his throat with a shoe shank.

District Attorney Pelletier announced:

"Robinson was found by the seven o'clock watch lying in a pool of blood on his cot. He had given no indication of his intention to commit suicide. At six o'clock he was in normal condition for the guard noticed him in his cell. Evidently he had waited until the six o'clock guard passed in order to be sure of having plenty of time to bleed to death. His neck and his left wrist were badly gashed."

MOTHER BLAMES HUSBAND

WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE, O., July 22.—Spared the terrible ordeal of baring her life in court to save her boy, Lawrence (Diamond Chip) Robinson, four time murderer, who she said, was a criminal through pre-natal influences, Mrs. M. Robinson broke down and wept bitterly today when told that her son was dead, a suicide in his cell at Boston.

"I have nothing to say; nothing to say, I tell you," she cried. Shrinking from further publicity, of her statement that her son was born with murder in his heart through her hate for the man—his father—who wronged her, Mrs. Robinson took refuge at the home of a neighbor.

The gray-haired woman had planned to leave for Boston to tell her story, a tragic tale of how her pent-up hatred bloomed into the life of her offspring, an enemy to society from early in his career.

Persons who knew Robinson declared today his suicide was undoubtedly to save his mother her contemplated ordeal.

LA CROSSE MEN ACTIVE IN CAMP

Capt. F. H. Fowler Is Officer of the Day, Aided by Company M Men as Guards

SHAM BATTLE IS INTERESTING

Reds and Blues Battle for Army Supplies; Items of Interest About Local Men

CAMP DOUGLAS, Wis., July 22.—(Special.)—Pseudo warfare began in earnest yesterday when the first official maneuvers of this year's encampment were inaugurated. The First Regiment of Reds under Col. Daniel Stearns of Monroe, were encamped three and a half miles north of Camp Douglas and marching from their position at an early hour yesterday morning attempted to seize the wagon trains and stores of the Blues who occupied an advantageous point in the village of Camp Douglas. The advancing Reds were held in check by two battalions of Third Regiment Blues, of which Companies M and B of La Crosse were important factors, but by the time the invading host reached striking distance the coveted stores had been removed to a place of safety and the Blues were declared the winner.

Captain Wells, Tomah, was officer of the day, Lieut. Quilling, Menomonee, was officer of the guard, and Lieut. Robert Gray of La Crosse, medical officer of the day for June 21. Captain F. H. Fowler, of Company M is today's officer of the day and Sergeant Ludwig Moe and four Company M privates will form part of the camp guard.

Cadet Holland Robb, son of G. W. Robb, proprietor of the LaCrosse Woolen Mills, is spending the week at the camp and is on duty at regimental headquarters.

Private Robert Franklin of Company M is confined in the field hospital with a slight attack of appendicitis but will doubtless report for duty again in a few days.

Captain George Longbrake is chaplain of the Third regiment and Sunday gave a stirring talk to the men on the peaceful mission of the militia and the qualifications necessary to be a good soldier.

ORDERS CRIMINAL SUIT AGAINST THE NEW HAVEN BOARD

Wilson Issues Instructions to Attorney General McReynolds Last Night

SMALL CHANCE TO AVERT WAR

Only Way Is for the New Haven to Accept the Massachusetts Law

AGREEMENT BROKEN BY ROAD

"Peace Protocol" Providing for Dissolution Is Ignored by the Directors

WASHINGTON, July 22.—President Wilson last night instructed Attorney General McReynolds to file suit under the Sherman anti-trust law for dissolution of the New Haven railroad combination and to institute criminal proceedings against directors responsible.

Finishing touches were given today to papers in the dissolution suit. They will be filed before the week's end in the federal district court for southern New York, it was stated at the department of justice today.

To Call Grand Jury
A special venire for a federal grand jury to hear criminal complaints against the New Haven directors will be called at New York early in August, according to the department's plans.

The remote chance that the New Haven directors might, at the last moment, to avert the consequences of the biggest "trust busting" suit ever instituted by the government, accept the Massachusetts law ordering divorce of the Boston and Maine and the New Haven, with option of the state to buy the B. & M. stock, was the only possibility of peace between the New Haven and the government.

Agreement Broken
The "peace protocol," signed with the government by Chairman Elliott and New Haven directors last March, providing for peaceful settlement and dissolution, goes by the board in its entirety, the department of justice believes, upon filing of the dissolution suit. Plans for management of the subsidiaries of the New Haven by trustees will fall.

The position of the president and Attorney General McReynolds was made public last night through three letters, one from the attorney general to President J. M. Hustis of the New Haven, dated July 9, one to President Wilson from the attorney general, dated today, and the president's reply, written this afternoon.

Orders Criminal Action
"In the circumstances the course you propose is the only one the government can pursue. I therefore request and direct that a proceeding in equity be filed seeking the dissolution of the unlawful monopoly of transportation facilities in New England now sought to be maintained by the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad company, and that the criminal aspects of the case be laid before a grand jury."

In his letter to the president, Attorney General McReynolds stated that if his recommendations met with approval, he would immediately give the necessary directions.

Daddy's Bedtime Story
The Canoe Race Between The Frogs.

DADDY had seen such a funny thing that day that really he could hardly wait to get home to tell Jack and Evelyn about it.

"The frogs had a canoe race," he began just as soon as he got into the children's room.

"They did?" shouted the children excitedly. "Oh, do tell us all about it, daddy!"

"Well, they made their own canoes in the first place out of birch bark. They were very fine looking canoes, for they had painted them as well. An old fisherman had been by their pond for several days painting his boat, and he had left behind him just enough paint for them to paint their newly made canoes with. They painted them a very pretty shade of red."

"And then they planned for their races. There were to be ten canoes in the race, and each canoe was to have two frogs paddling it. They had made their own paddles, too, but they were all exactly the same length and the same weight, so that the race would be perfectly fair."

"But when the ten canoes lined up there was scarcely any room in the pond for their paddies. They clashed with their paddies, and the ends of the canoes frequently banged."

"Still they managed to get along somehow, and the frogs who were looking on thought it was the most expert race they had ever seen."

"They waved flags, they sang songs, and they cheered."

"Those in the race were so excited that they really did not show at all how well they could paddle, and they had become very good paddlers through the constant practice they had had of late."

"Just as the two leading canoes were rounding the goal their paddies caught, and the canoes upset, dropping the frogs into the water, of course."

"Then the same thing happened to all the rest of the boats except the two that had been at the tail end all the time. You see, the goal was at the end of a little curve which led into the cove, and that was so difficult to get around. The boat next to the very last got around the little cove, but as the two frogs inside thought that they were the winners they tried to hurry too much, and they also upset."

"Such laughter as there was among the frogs, for they thought it was a great joke that all the fine canoeists should upset."

"But the two in the very last boat took their time, for, of course, there was not left a single boat to get ahead of them. Slowly they paddled around the curve and into the cove."

"And the ones who had been behind all through the race finally won."

Mr. Sholtz visited Vilco county last week and selected a beautiful spot, partly covered by timber and partly by mineral and grass lands, in the state forestry reserve section. He will go to Chicago this week to purchase fencing wire to enclose the tract, which embraces about one section in the center of the township, lying in section 17 and in adjoining townships. The establishment of the farm this year will depend on whether the fencing can be purchased and transported for a sum within the appropriation.

NET CONTAINER LAW TO BE ENFORCED
All Packages Must Now Be Plainly and Conspicuously Marked to Show the Exact Amount

MADISON, Wis., July 22.—The state department of weights and measures is preparing to enforce the net container law enacted by the last legislature, which goes into effect on September 1, simultaneously with the federal law. It requires that all articles of food and drink sold in the package must be plainly and conspicuously marked on the outside to show the amount of food contained. It covers bottled goods of all kinds, beverages, condiments, spices, etc. It is practically the same as the federal law. It applies to package goods but not to goods sold in bulk. The state law defines the term "package" as the national law does not.

Under the state law, the department includes wrapped meats, such as hams and bacon, as packages. Under the Wisconsin interpretation, sausages wrapped in the usual edible covering are packages and subject to the net container law. It is probable that wholesale interests will bring an action to contest the validity of such rulings. Attorney General Owen has held that this law covers cartons of butter with thin paper around them, and a cheese enclosed in tin foil.

The need of a net weight law in this state was shown yesterday when the Stevens Point city sealer sent to the state department a consignment of wrapping paper weighing one-half pound, which had been wrapped around an eight pound ham and included in the weight for which the consumer paid.

The state regulations on the law will be issued soon. The federal regulations are out.

HARVEY MARTIN AGAIN IN RACE
MADISON, Wis., July 22.—Senator H. C. Martin of Darlington yesterday announced his candidacy for re-election on the republican ticket. He has been a state senator continuously since 1899 and served a term in 1895 in the assembly. He had long been president pro tem of the upper house and dean of the members of that body. His nomination papers are being circulated. He will have opposition in the primary, it is believed. The Philipp republicans are planning to hold a convention at Darlington this week to nominate candidates for county and legislative offices.

A STOMACH TONIC
There is a form of indigestion called "atonic" dyspepsia. Atonic means "lack of tone." It is probably the most common form of indigestion but not much is heard about it because people are inclined to group all forms of dyspepsia as "stomach trouble" and the doctors let it go at that.

Lack of tone in the digestive organs means that the stomach is no longer able to do its work as nature intended. The nerves that control it are weak, the glands that supply the digestive fluids are not working properly. Gas on the stomach, sour risings in the throat and constipation result. The cause of the trouble is thin blood. Stomach, nerves and glands are all dependent on the blood and when it gets thin and watery they are at once weakened. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly on the blood and the first response from the stomach is a better appetite, freedom from distress after eating and an increase in ambition and energy generally. Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a stomach tonic and see how your general health improves.

A diet book, "What to Eat and How to Eat" will be sent free on request by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Every druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

"Hello! Is that you, Dickie?"

"Yes. How are you today, May, dearest?"

"Fine! Say, Dick, dear, do something for me, will you?"

"The very idea of asking me that. Anything I've got's yours. My life! Any old thing."

"Well, I don't want your life—or or any old thing. You must not take yourself so lightly. But to be serious, I'd like to borrow a little of the muscle you anneved on the football field. I want you to help me with something."

"I'll move the Washington monument for you."

"Silly! I only want you to carry a traveling bag."

"A traveling bag! Are you going away?"

"Not very far. Only over to the Settlement House on the south side. I'm taking over some children's books I've dug up in the attic and they are as heavy as lead."

"All right, honey. I'll be out right away."

"Oh, no, no!" in alarm. "Father will be sure to find out if you come to the house. I just can't face another storm."

"Well?"

"Nora is as strong as a horse. She can carry it to the car for me. Then if you meet me at Fremont street and help me across the square to the Hampton street car, I will be very much obliged. I get off right in front of the Settlement House and the rest is easy. Of course, I could get a messenger but—"

"But—"

"I haven't seen you for almost a week."

"You darling!"

"At 3 sharp."

"Good-bye."

"Good-bye, loveliest girl in the world!"

At 6 o'clock Mr. Wilson sat down to dinner. May's place across the table was empty.

"Lucy, where is Miss May?"

"I don't know, Mr. Milton. I'll ask Nora." In a minute Lucy returned. "Nora says she went out at 2:30."

"Tell Nora to come here."

Nora appeared in the doorway. "Where did Miss May go?"

"I don't know, Mr. Milton. She went out at 2:30 with a traveling bag. I helped her to carry it to the street car."

"Thunderation! Didn't she say where she was going?"

"No, sir."

Mr. Milton went to the telephone and called up his sister, Mrs. Morrow.

"Kate, do you know anything about May? She went some place with a traveling bag and left me no word."

"Now don't blow up, brother John. Yes, I do know something and was just wondering about it. Jimmy was coming from school at 3 o'clock, when he saw May and Dick Witherow get into a taxicab at the corner of Fremont street and the square. They had a traveling bag!"

"D—! Why couldn't you tell me? It's too late now."

"Why, brother, John?"

"Do you suppose that presumptuous, overgrown pup has run off with my daughter? I'll break his neck."

"I don't suppose anything at all. I know something, though. That if they haven't run off, I wish they had. It would serve you right for talking that way to your sister. Besides I like Dick."

"I don't, and I'll show him! I'll show everybody! The gall! The—the—"

Mr. Milton was beyond further speech. The receiver dropped from his hand.

He paced up and down the hall like a caged lion. May, run off with Dick Witherow! May, married to Dick Witherow! He hated the whole family! One time Dick's father had cheated him! What he meant was that one time the elder Witherow had frustrated an attempt on his own part to do some money juggling. He ate no dinner. He sat in the

PATMONT IN CHICAGO
MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 22.—Louis R. Patmont, the disappearing minister is today in Chicago on his way to Detroit, according to Rev. C. L. Milton, one of Patmont's closest friends, who has been with the "dry" worker since Sunday.

"Mr. Patmont will be placed in a sanitarium for a time," said Mr. Milton.

"Patmont said he was held up by two men who threatened to kill him if he did not leave town. They gave him $80. Since then he has been ashamed to let his relatives know of his whereabouts."

CHICAGO, July 22.—Olive Wilmot, young Milwaukee girl who disappeared from her home several days ago, is at the house of correction here and will be returned home by her father today according to officials of the institution. The police found the girl wandering about in a dazed condition last Friday, apparently under the influence of drugs, according to house of correction attaches. She was unable to tell how she came to be in Chicago.

ENGLAND OPPOSES KING'S ATTITUDE
Both Sides Object to George's Conference on Home Rule Bill Today

LONDON, July 22.—Great crowds today gathered about Buckingham palace watching the arrival of the government, opposition and Irish leaders in the epoch-making conference called by King George in an attempt to bring about a peaceful solution of the home rule fight. His majesty formally greeted the conferees in the Bow room of the palace. He did not participate in the discussion however. Speaker Lowther of the house of commons presided.

The conference adjourned after only an hour and a half session. The premier and others refused to make any statement.

Resentment over the interference of the king was growing today. The Daily Citizen, a labor paper, voiced the anger of the coalition forces of the government by declaring:

"The king's veto has been substituted for the lords' veto. The court stepped into the Curragh and has now stepped into the commons. The court must heed where the next foot-steps lead."

The Unionists are equally discontented with the turn affairs have taken. They forsee as a result of the conference a fruitless attempt on the part of Premier Asquith to "save his face" by a step which will take from King George the last vestige of popularity he enjoys.

MOTHERHOOD
In Boston a Woman's league has provided a nurse to visit expectant mothers every ten days. The nurse is teaching what these women should know. She makes periodical examinations of urine and blood pressure. The latter is a comparatively new test. By means of it physicians secure more accurate knowledge of the actual condition of their patients than they were formerly able to get.

The number of premature and still births has been greatly reduced. The most remarkable gain, however, has been in the threatened cases of eclampsia. Eclampsia has been the great source of danger to the mother in child birth. In four years threatened cases have been reduced from over ten per cent to none. A reduction of thirty-five per cent in the number of still births was secured. Under supervision and ministrations of visiting nurses, there was over sixty per cent decrease in number of premature births.

These patients were, it may be assumed, amongst the very poor. The results, however, have been so encouraging that the visiting is to be extended to private patients.

The great lesson to be learned from this is the opportunity afforded all classes through thorough instruction and close observation. If child birth can be made so much more safe for poverty stricken working women it ought to be attended by practically no danger in better class homes.

Expectant mothers should lead the most hygienic possible lives. Diet should be carefully regulated. The amount and character of exercise is most important. Fatigue from excessive work or social duties should be carefully avoided. On the other hand there is no warrant for a prospective mother's considering herself a helpless cripple. She should have judicious training for a physical trial. She can, and should, build up her strength as carefully as a prizefighter, runner or tennis player does, in preparing for a world's championship contest.

Impure air is especially poisonous at this time; coffee more so than usual. Great quantities of water should be drunk. Equally large doses of fresh air should be secured. At least such care as is given a race horse is a mother's due.

Nothing in creation is more wonderful, more beautiful, more appealing than awakening motherhood. Most people, at this time, express their veneration in added understanding, sympathy, respect, gentleness and unselfish attentions. These constitute an obligation. Even more, they offer an opportunity to secure lasting affection at a time when the recipient is unusually impressionable.

darkening library watching the clock. Seven struck and no daughter appeared. The house was deathly quiet. It seemed as if some one were dead. May, his little May, was gone. He was a lonely, childless, old man. She would never come back! She knew he would never forgive her!

When Mr. Milton dropped the receiver, Mrs. Morrow hung up her own. She walked thoughtfully into the diningroom and sat down to her unfinished meal.

"Well?" asked her husband.

"What's the row?"

"I was just thinking. I believe I'll call up Dick Witherow and tell him that if he hasn't already married May Milton he may as well do it right away. He's got the credit for it, anyway, and brother John will be cooled off by the time they get home. I know brother John. He'll come around all right."

So Dick Witherow, his face half-lathered, half-shaved, answered the "phone in his bedroom and heard Mrs. Morrow's astounding proposition. And in two minutes he had communicated the idea to May, who was at the Settlement House, detained by a wrangle of the house committee.

At 7 o'clock, while Mr. Milton watched the clock, the rector of St. Stephen's was tying the nuptial knot, and Dick Witherow and May Milton were pronounced man and wife.

At 8 o'clock Mr. Milton tottered to his room. He had not been so desolate for years. How could he ever manage to live without bright, happy little May?

Suddenly a thought came to him. He need not live without her. What had never put such a thought into his head? He would tell her—tell them—to come home. After all a son-in-law wouldn't make much difference. Now that it was over he rather admired the young man's nerve. He had never given him credit for much initiative.

Just then the door bell rang and he heard May's happy laugh in the hall, then Dick's deeper tones.

A glow passed through him like wine. They had not forsaken him! They had come home to him instead of taking a trip! Then he went downstairs.

It was Mrs. Morrow who called up a caterer and some of the bride's friends to share the feast.

But it was Mr. Milton who laid a generous check on top of the wedding cake and gave the happy young couple his blessing.

BUTTE AN OUTLAW
UNTO ITSELF

They're having trouble in Butte, Mont. Law enforcement is at a low ebb, and eastern critics are having much to say about the "breaking down of self government."

The criticism may be deserved—but were you ever in Butte? Can you picture a city absolutely without a park or playground, without a tree, without a shrub, without a single lawn, without a flower or a blade of grass or any green thing visible?
Where the environs are a nightmare
of hideous colors from the washing of ore and the piling of waste, and all vegetation is killed by the gases of reduction plants? Where houses are built without yards, over a honeycombed hill, within which men burrow like ants? Have you been down in those mines, four and five thousand feet below the surface, where Butte's citizens toil in gloom, heat and foul odors?

If you have, maybe you are somewhat tolerant of Butte's occasional lawlessness and lapses into brutality.
Life at Butte, whether underground
or above it, is not particularly conducive to courtesy, mildness, submission and other Christian virtues.
We shouldn't expect the manners of Boston's Back Bay or New York's Fifth avenue in a mining camp, and that's what Butte is, on a vast scale.

Environment has a powerful lot to do with the way human beings behave toward each other. Perhaps if you lived in Butte, you, too, would think it proper to go on a rampage

now and then, shoot up the people
you didn't like and throw the mayor
out of a second-story window!

At least, it's a bad place in which to pull off the stunt of a few mine workers' officials trying to openly defraud several thousand workmen.

LEHRKE'S FAMILY
MUST HAVE AID

Albert Lehrke's wife and little children have started to pay for the crime of the husband and father.
The man must serve 14 months in the Green Bay reform school for robbery.

Lehrke became a thief. When the police searched his home they found six cents in money, a half a loaf of bread and some lard. Nothing more.

Lehrke's wages were modest, but had he been the right kind of citizen the want of his family would not have been so great. However,
that is aside from the question.

Lehrke committed a crime against society and must be punished as a correction and to protect society.

Unfortunately the law says nothing of his wife and their five children. What of them while the husband is paying the state for his crime? As usual they are the ones to suffer.

Not until government compels the employment of every convict for the maintenance of his home during his absence will justice be done dependants of outlaws.

A WESTERN MEASURE
OF NEW YORK CITY

With the clean view of the whole
some west a Hood River, Oregon, man writes to a New York newspaper:

New York is the symbol for weak
men, masculine women, childless homes and civic rottenness. Paris, London, Vienna, Madrid, Rome, etc., all have their good points and in their way stand for what is best in their respective nations; but New York City is an un-American as it is un-European. It is neither "flesh, fowl nor good red herring." It is a monstrosity, perverted, filthy, diseased. It stands for nothing save commercialism. It is the leper city of the United States, unclean and self-heralded.

If New York city were towed out to sea and sunk, the world would still have Paris, Berlin, London and Vienna, and the United States would still have Chicago, San Francisco, Cleveland and Philadelphia; so outside of the monetary loss, who should worry? America (for the sake of her youth) could well afford to have one rotten limb taken off.

The Hood River man doesn't "live in a glass house." Out there the licentious mining camp is a thing of the past. Seattle and Spokane, the worst of the northwestern cities, are cleaned up morally, while saloon restrictions are severe. Even Butte, the "Hurley" of the west, is more exacting in these matters than the average Wisconsin city.

JINGOISM AND PATRIOTISM

Newspapers report that J. P. Morgan and Company and Kuhn, Loeb
and company want the United States government to turn over to them the import duty collected at Vera Cruz
to pay the interest on Mexican bonds held by these bankers. Is this a startling proposal? Not if one harks back to the era of dollar diplomacy.
These Wall street bankers have got into the habit of looking to Uncle Sam to "guarantee" their foreign speculations and collect their doubtful bills—with the army and navy, if necessary.—La Follette's Magazine.

Certainly! Remember when "Billy" Mason was clamoring in the Senate for war with Spain? He got it, and from the moment when the first volunteer shouldered his gun not a whisper was heard from the author of the jingoism that did the business. It was the sons of the farmer, the laborer and the merchant who went to the front and died in battle or from fever. But "Billy" Mason's crowd did very well, and the gentlemen who furnished arms and ammunition and armor plate and embalmed beef prospered, and those who had concessions in Cuba realized
on their enterprises.

Let's not waste our sympathy on the under dog if he started the scrap.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

For the Summer

I think it would be simply grand
to take a trip in Switzerland—
Along the mountain peak and snows
Which every motion picture shows.
It would be pleasant, yes, indeed,
Upon a private yacht to speed
Among the lakes and inland seas.
That is a trip that ought to please.
In Norway now, the nights are cool—
At least that's what we learned in school;

I'd like to spend the summer there
And cast aside dull aching care.
I wish they would not send to me
Those traveling folders, land and sea.
They only aggravate the case
And make a guy long for some place
That he can't go to on a bet—
Some place that he cannot forget.
I do not think that I will roam,
I've gotta work, I'll stay at home—
Because I'm paying yet, you know,
For books I bought nine years ago.
Perhaps, perhaps some far off time
I may go to some other clime.
But not until I've made the grade
And the last instalment has been paid.

The Safety Aeroplane

Glenn H. Curtis was taking in New York about the various devices that are supposed to make aeroplanes safe.

"Aerial safety hasn't arrived yet,"
Mr. Curtis said. "The safety aeroplane has yet to be invented."

He added, with a smile:

"An aviator raised his bandaged
head from the pillow of his hospital cot the other day to tell me that it hurts just as much to fall in a safety aeroplane as in the old kind."

Did He Know

"But I don't know you, madam,"
the bank cashier said to the woman who had presented a check.

The woman, however, instead of saying haughtily, "I do not wish your acquaintance, sir," merely replied
with an engaging smile:

"Oh, yes, you do, I think. I'm the 'red-headed old virago' next door to you whose scoundrelly little boys are always reaching through the fence and picking your flowers. When you started for town this morning, your wife said: 'Now, Henry, if you want a dinner fit to eat this evening you'll have to leave me a little money. I can't keep this house on plain water
and sixpence a day.'"—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Promises in Politics

During a municipal campaign in Chicago a politician dropped in one morning to see a certain grocer. During the conversation that took place
the politician asked, "And I may count upon your support, may I not?"

"Why, no, I am sorry to say," replied the grocer. "The fact is, I have promised my support to the other candidate."

The politician laughed. "Ah," said
he, "in politics promising and performing are two different things."

"In that case," said the grocer cordially, "I shall be glad to give you my promise, sir."—Lippincott's.

Defending an increase of 5 per cent in freight rates, President Rea of the Pennsylvania railroad said at a luncheon at the Union league in simoniously. Spend too little, and manifest evils at once spring up."

"Mabel, Tommy and Dan, three ragged little country weekers, looked anxiously at Joe, their brother, who advanced across the barnyard toward them crying bitterly."

"Dan ran to Joe. Then the others

when Dan came back leading Joe
by the hand.

"'Boo, hoo!' roared Dan. 'A goose bit him, and he swallowed that there

The Great New Historical Romance

John
O' Jamestown

By VAUGHN KESTER

Copyright, The Bobbs-Merrill Company

Even in the uncertain light I recognized the fellow I had knocked down as that very stout ruffian, John Laydon. I reached for my sword, intending to make an end of him, but John Smith would not have it.

"Of what use is it, Dick—let him go."

"A good example is never less than a good example," I urged.

"Nay, Dick. I forbid it."

He made as if to rise from his bed,
but his hurts would not allow of this,
and he sank back groaning aloud for very misery.

"Let him up, Farraday—I command it," he said at length, when he could speak, and with a bad enough grace I drew back, permitting Lay-don to come to his feet.

"Master Laydon, what harm have I done you?" Smith asked, following a brief silence.

"Why, nothing truly, and yet you have put many a hard task on me."

"Can you say it was more than I have put on myself?" demanded Smith.

"I would not say that," answered
the fellow sullenly, after a little pause.

"You may go," said Smith, turning from him; and Laydon passed out into the twilight, saved for a punishment beyond any I had pur-posed.

Smith now bade me fetch a light,
and a little later when we had eaten
our supper Percy came to say that he would abide in James Town until our new rulers arrived.

"Then I must see the fleet Captain and take orders to sail with him,"
said Smith.

"By your leave, I will do that for you," said Percy, quitting his chair.

And after he left us John Smith
would talk very wisely to me; speaking of the future, and how he wished we might meet again, and then of those hardships we had faced together; and he let me see that he had as honest a liking for me as one man may have for another, which made the thought of his going seem like the thought of death. I think he knew that even if he survived his hurts he would not return to Virginia, for he said with melancholy:

"I have broken the ice, and beat
the path; but not one foot of ground here, nor the very house I built, nor the ground I dug, is mine!"

At dawn the next day came a message from the fleet Captain to say that since the tide would be favourable for getting his ships down the river, he proposed to sail about twelve of the clock. Smith's private belongings were few, even for a soldier, and I had soon stowed them in his great sea chest. By the time I had finished with this, his soldiers were crowding about the bed where he lay, to say their farewells.

Then with the guns roaring a parting salute, we carried him, very weak and pitiful to look at, aboard
the fleet Captain's ship, and as Master Richard Potts, the clerk of the Council, afterward wrote:

"Thus we lost him, that in all his proceedings made justice his first guide and experience his second;
ever hating baseness, sloth, pride,
and indignity, more than any dangers; that never allowed more for himself than his soldiers with him;
that upon no danger would send himself; that would never see us want what he either had, or could by any means get us; that would rather want than borrow, and starve
than not pay; that loved action
more than words, and hated falsehood and covetousness worse than death; whose adventures were our lives, and whose losses our deaths."

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX.

We were now five hundred strong in Virginia, taking count of the women and children, and those of us who were settled at James Town occupied some sixty houses built within a stout stockade not easy to be come at by an enemy and defended by twenty pieces of ordnance. Dependent upon our little capital for their ordering were the settlements of Nansemond and West's fort, with the beginning of a footing at Point Comfort hard by the mouth of the James.

Excepting the stores of victual
which we lacked, we were furnished with all things needful for our well being. We boasted upward of a hundred soldiers trained to the country and knowing the language and habitation of the savages, we had three small ships and seven such other boats as were adapted to the navigation of our bays and rivers, there were tools for all kinds of work, nets

for fishing, and much land ready cleared. Of muskets and small arms
there was an abundance, with plenty of powder, shot, and match in store.

There had been made, too, a respectable advance toward the time when we could maintain ourselves without having to look either to England or the savages; for our live stock had been much increased by the London Company, whose ships had brought us sheep, goats, and horses. One thing only we lacked,
and this was the proper managing of our affairs, for as soon as John Smith left, our people regarded nothing but from hand to mouth.

Fifty projects for the support of the colony until the next harvest or until Lord De la Warr should arrive were discussed and abandoned in a day; Percy fell sick, so that his very life was despaired of, and a dozen presidents clamored for recognition.
Now it was the old commission, now
the new, now another; and like the hogs the devil sheared, our would-be masters produced more noise than wool.

Then to add to our disordered
state, came the men from Nansemond whom Martin had abandoned, and a little later West appeared with his men from the top of the river,
the savages having turned so resolutely against these new settlers that there seemed no safety for them but behind the stout palisades

at James Town. But this was not the worst; the savages, knowing John Smith had left us, changed from being our friends to instantly become our enemies, ready to murder whenever the chance offered.

Our wrangles and bickerings, for we had all turned politicians, took us to the first snows of winter, and as it became clearly manifest that something must be done to fend off
a famine, one of our ships, the Swallow, freighted with such commodities as the Indians delighted in,
was sent down river to truck, but when she had got her cargo of meat and corn, the crew sailed away to look for Spanish treasure ships; but what was the end of this venture
no man knows, since the Swallow was never more heard of; by which it is judged the villains who manned her earned a proper punishment at the hands of those they had set out to spoil.

"BLACKLIST" IS SHOOTER'S REASON

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 22.—Edward King surrendered to the police today and confessed that he shot Felix Anderson, assistant to President McKinley of the Terminal Railroad association, last Saturday. Anderson identified him. King declared that he had planned for reinstatement as a switchman before firing at Anderson. He said he was "under the ban" and unable to get work and became desperate.

EUCCHARIST MEET ON AT LOURDES

LOURDES, France, July 22.—The Eucharistic congress of the Catholic church was formally opened at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the famous miraculous shrine of Our Lady of Lourdes in the presence of the most representative international audience ever assembled in the history of Catholicism.

Ten cardinals in the gorgeous robes of their high office, occupied places of honor on the rostrum, while scattered through the audience of 6,000 delegates were 200 archbishops and bishops officially representing every leading Catholic country in the world. The United States had for its representation Cardinal Farley and seven other archbishops and bishops. France naturally had the largest representation in the persons of sixty-three archbishops and bishops.

BATTLE OF WILLS BETWEEN WOMEN

NEW YORK, July 22.—"I won't eat," declares "Becky" Edelson, anarchist and woman leader of the unemployed, in a cell in the workhouse on Blackwell's Island.

"You will eat," declares Dr. Katherine E. Davis, another woman, commissioner of corrections.

And there you are. It was just a question today of which woman has the strongest will. "Becky" has been "hunger striking" for forty-five hours now. Early today she gave no signs of weakening when she scornfully told her jailer to "take it away," referring to the food placed before her.

Dr. Davis says she isn't worrying. She declares that "Becky" will eat when it becomes certain that food is necessary to keep her alive, and eat whether she wants to or not. Forcible feeding would be resorted to if necessary, the commissioner said.

ORIGIN OF FIRE DEEP IN MYSTERY

Conflicting Theories Put Forward to Account for Ormson Livery Blaze

Fire of unknown origin yesterday afternoon completely destroyed the rear of the livery stable belonging to L. G. Ormson, 616 St. Cloud street, together with about two tons of hay in the loft of the barn.

According to the owner, no one, in his knowledge, had been in the loft of the barn since morning, when the barn boss went into the mow to throw down fodder for the day.

Conflicting stories are told by spectators about the fire. Some say a tramp fell asleep in the barn, his pipe setting fire to the hay, while others advance the opinion that a live wire started the blaze. Officials of the fire department are undecided.

Fire company No. 2 answered the call and inside of five minutes had two streams of water playing on the fire, which by the time the alarm was given and the apparatus arrived, had broken through the roof and was shooting flames and sparks twenty feet over the main part of the barn. A brisk southwest wind fanned the flames, but the high pressure enabled the firemen to gain control of the blaze early. An hour after the alarm the fire was extinguished.

Outside of the rear of the stable, no damage was done, although it was thought for a time that the entire structure would go up in smoke. People living in the vicinity of the stable made preparations to move their effects into the street.

The loss is entirely covered by insurance. Dr. S. C. Swarthout, owner of the building, is undecided as to whether or not he will rebuild.

BOY DRAGGED FROM HORSE AN BEATEN

Efforts to Find Man Who Made Assault on Youth Near Brownsville Not Successful

BROWNVILLE, Minn., July 22.—(Special.)—Efforts to find the man who brutally assaulted Joseph Flannery, have failed. The boy was returning to his home when an unknown man stopped the horse upon which he was riding. Without cause the boy was badly beaten and was left unconscious in the road.

He was found a short time later in great pain, by his sister, who notified her parents.

No trace of the man has been found and the authorities are unable to account for the unusual and cruel assault.

DELLS DAM CASE IS LOST BY CITY

EAU CLAIRE, Wis., July 22.—By the decision handed down yesterday by Judge A. H. Reid of Wausau, before whom the case was tried here last February, the city of Eau Claire is the loser in the famous Dells dam case, while the Dells Improvement company and the Dells Paper and Pulp company of this city are victors. The city will appeal.

The litigation, which had been hanging fire in the courts since 1906, involved rights and privileges to the Dells dam in this city, which was built by the city in 1877 and leased to the plaintiffs for a term of ninety-nine years for the consideration of $1 per year.

The city assailed the ninety-nine year contract, holding it invalid, contending among other things that such a contract was in abuse of discretionary power of the city and contrary to public policy, and that the city had no power to make such a contract. The court denied these contentions.

Prize Texas Beauties Didn't Wear Enough Paint to Suit New York

Nine Texas prize beauties who went to New York on their way to Europe after winning a trip because of their good looks, found just before they sailed that their type of beauty was not at all appreciated.

Strong, healthy girls, with rosy cheeks that needed no paint for color, they were, but they met with sneers and even ridicule in New York.

But they sailed away without learning why they hadn't caused something of a sensation. But a hotel clerk, who hadn't spent most of his life on Broadway or the Bow-ery, explained the case.

"Why they didn't wear any paint on their faces," said he. "Yes, they had rosy cheeks, most of them almost perfect, natural complexions. But nature doesn't suit New York. Your lover of beauty here believes that nature is crude and art can improve it."

CHAUTAUQUA OPENS WITH FINE OUTLOOK

Sale of Tickets Is Unusually Good; Paul Randall Killed by Live Electric Wire

M'GREGOR, Iowa, July 22.—The five days Chautauqua which the Redpath Vawter company will give here this week, under the auspices of the business men, opened yesterday in the tent in the park with an organization of play festivals for children in the morning, an afternoon lecture by Joe R. Hanly and a concert in the evening by "The American Girls." The sale of tickets has been good and a successful week is expected. This is the second year a Chautauqua has been held in McGregor. That of last year was a pronounced success.

Lineman Killed

Paul Dowdall, a lineman, was killed on Main street at McGregor almost instantly Saturday afternoon as the result of accidentally coming in contact with a live wire of 2,000 voltage while working at the top of an electric light pole. The men who were working with him picked him up as he fell to the ground and carried him to the hospital where he breathed his last in a few moments. A. L. Zearley, the county coroner, was called and held an inquest Saturday evening, returning the verdict "death accidental caused by coming in contact with a live electrical wire." Mr. Dowdall had been at work on the lines for several weeks and was considered an expert lineman. His home is in St. Louis where he has a wife and child, a mother and a brother, who was recently seriously injured in an automobile accident. A friend of the family from St. Louis, Mr. Dustin, arrived Sunday and took the remains to St. Louis for burial.

Many See Game

One of the largest crowds that has ever assembled on the McGregor ball grounds witnessed the game between Strawberry Point and McGregor Sunday. Both teams have been making excellent records this season and proved to very well matched. The game resulted in a score of two to one for Strawberry Point. One hundred and twenty-five automobile loads of fans from neighboring towns drove in to see the game. McGregor is to play Waukon here next Sunday.

Week Lungs Often Lead to Serious Illness

231 S. Atlantic Ave., Haddonfield, N. J.

"Gentlemen:—In the fall of 1905 I contracted a very severe cold which settled on my lungs. At last I began to raise sputum, and my physician then told me I must go to California immediately. At this time I was advised to take Eckman's Alternative. I stayed at home and commenced taking it the last week of October. I began to improve and the first week in January, 1906, I resumed my regular occupation, having gained 25 pounds, fully restored to health. It is now seven years since my recovery has been effected, and I cannot praise Eckman's Alternative too highly." (Abbreviated)

HUSBAND KIDNAPED BOY SAYS MOTHER

College Professor's Wife
Calls Officials to Aid Her
in Search for Her Child

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 22.—Mrs. Mae M. Skinner, wife of Professor M. M. Skinner, Leland Stanford university, declared today that it was her husband who kidnapped her nine year old boy, while he was playing in front of George W. Beach's cottage, Phelps Island, Lake Minnetonka.

She says that when the child was picked up and whisked into an automobile she heard him cry "Help, mamma, papa is taking me away." Mrs. Skinner has commenced suit for divorce against her husband, alleging inhuman treatment.

Mrs. Skinner says she fears that an attempt will be made to steal her baby and six year old daughter. It is believed that the kidnapers boarded a train at Shakopee, with the boy, Sheriff Otto Langum has been asked to join in the search for the child.

NAME FORCES TO OCCUPY CAPITAL

Famous Zaragoza Brigade
to Make Part of 5,000 Troops in Entry

CHIHUAHUA, Mexico, July 22.—General Francisco Villa announced today that the force representing the division of the north in the constitutional army which will occupy Mexico City, will consist of the famous Zaragoza brigade, commanded by Raoul Madero, brother of the martyred president; Gen. Maclovio Herrera's brigade; the Ortega brigade, commanded by Gen. Carlos Dominguez and the "brigade Villa," under personal command of Villa. The combined strength of these will be about 5,000 men.

Gen. Rodolfo Fierro, slayer of William S. Benton, a British subject, will be attached to Gen. Villa's personal staff.

The announcement of the occupation of Irapuato nine hours by rail from Mexico City, by constitutional forces under Gen. Alvaro Obregon, has caused Villa to hasten the movement of his army to the south.

EL PASO, Texas, July 22.—Gen. Ynez Salazar and Rodrigo Quevedo and Maximo Castillo, United States prisoners at Fort Wingate, N. M., have been transferred from the barbed wire enclosure, where thousands of Mexican federal prisoners are held, to close confinement in the guard house. United States army officers here have ordered the transfer when they heard of a conspiracy spirit them to Mexico to lead a new release the three prisoners and revolution.

REPAIR SEWER

The sewer at Ninth and Cass streets, which broke during the heavy rainstorm a week ago last Sunday morning, was in the state of repair today. The pipe burst as the result of the excessive amount of water which went into it during the storm.

A Comedy Tragedy.

"What's the matter, dear?" asked Mr. Justwed as he came into the house and found his wife crying as if her heart would break.

"I am so discouraged," she sobbed. "What has bothered my little wife?" "I worked all the afternoon making custards, because I knew you were so fond of them, and—here she began weeping hysterically again.

"And what, darling?" "And they turned out to be sponge cakes."

How Amber Is Obtained.

Almost all the amber comes from the coast of the Baltic sea. Amber is a fossil resin. After a storm large quantities of it are washed up, and the fishermen go out with dragnets and haul it up. All finds must be delivered to the Prussian government, which has a monopoly of the industry. It owns a large mine at Palmnicken, where hundreds of miners are employed in digging it out of a stratum of blue earth. It is turned in lathes and carved principally by women, and all the debris is used in making varnish.

He charged that the I. W. W.'s are "scabbing on the job" at Butte, and that they are doing everything in their power to tear down the fabric of unionism as it exists today. Grimes, University of Chicago golfer, in the western junior golf championship play at the Chicago Golf club today, 5 up and 4 to play. INVITE PATRONS TO JOIN PICNIC

Grocers Send Around Handbills to All Customers
with Their Provisions
Today

Patrons of La Crosse grocers today received in their baskets of provisions handbills announcing the annual grocers' picnic, to be held Aug. 15.

"Gosh! Everybody has been waiting for this picnic," declares the dodger. The bill gives details of the plans, mentioning the open air excursion to Camp Tate on the South-eastern road, special rates and free coffee, cream and sugar for the picnickers. All groceries will be closed on the date, declares the bill.

Discussing the trip, the bill announces:

"The grocer always thinks of his patrons, that's why they have the most largely attended picnic of the season. But, say friends, thousands of people spend thousands of dollars sight-seeing but do not see scenery equal to the sights you will see on our open air excursion on August 5. Music all the way. Your grocer will be there to entertain you and see that you have a good time. The regular fare to Camp Tate and return is $2.08, but the grocers have bought the train, that's why you can go for less than half fare."

KILLS DAUGHTERS AND SUICIDES

Prominent Surgeon Commits Triple Tragedy
While Insane from
Use of Drugs

GLENWOOD SPRINGS, Colo., July 22.—Dr. T. L. Hutchison, a prominent surgeon, and his two daughters are dead here today, victims of the man's insane frenzy resulting from excessive use of drugs. Hutchison shot and killed his daughters Fay, 10, and Lois, 12, and then committed suicide in his office. Only the bravery of Miss Mary McCahan saved Mrs. Hutchison from a like fate.

Two weeks ago, during a "drug spree," Hutchison beat his wife severely. She went to a hotel and was under the care of a nurse. Late yesterday Hutchison visited the hotel and dragged the woman from bed, threatening to kill her.

Miss McCahan interfered and the physician left. He went to his office where his two children waited and shot both dead. Before outsiders, hearing the shots, could reach the office, he had committed suicide.

The earliest application of the clesydra principle to produce motion was by Tsiang Hung, A. D. 126, who made an "orrery" representing the apparent motion of the heavenly bodies around the earth, which was kept going by dropping water. In the sixth century of the Christian era an instrument was in use in China which indicated the course of time by the weight of water as it gradually came from the beak of a bird and was received in a vessel on a balance, every pound representing a one-hundredth part of the day of twenty-four hours. About this time mercury began to be employed in clesydras instead of water.

Forever Dry.
There is a youngster in college who combines the poetic instinct with a keen sense of humor. He is not a close student. In fact, he regards books as instruments of torture. One of the professors picked up a textbook belonging to him the other day and found on the flyleaf this bit of verse, which no doubt expressed the student's opinion of it: Should there be another flood For refuge either fly. And should the whole world be submerged This book would still be dry.

Obvious Explanation.
Old Uncle Andy was steering his master's boat down the bay. They passed an ocean liner.

"Andy," said Mr. Blank, "just look how high that ship stands out of the water. I wonder why it is."

"Why, boss," answered the old dorky. "don't you know? We ain't had no rain for nigh on three weeks now, and de water's gittin' low."—New York Post.

RACE TO DECIDE
John Harder, 25, 1316 Redfield street, and his friend, Bert Hohl, 22, 1327 Johnson street, had an argument. Each insisted that his wind was better than his friend's. After wasting a lot of the debated wind in argument, they decided to put the matter to a test. And so, Thursday evening, at 8 o'clock, Harder and Hohl will race from West Avenue south and Mormon Coulee road to Stephan's, for a $4 side bet.

Hard Music.
"Can you make me a sheet iron mandolin?"

"I might, but it wouldn't have much tone. What do you want of a sheet iron mandolin, anyway?"

The new church, which is already well along in construction, is being built with the aid of a number of societies of the St. Wenceslaus and other congregations as well as of organizations not directly connected with the church. Some of the societies are St. Wenceslaus, the Knights of St. George, St. Joseph's and St. Francis Xavier's branches of the Catholic Workmen of America, La Crosse branch No. 131, Catholic Knights of Wisconsin, St. Agnes' and St. Ann's Benevolent societies, St. Ludmilla's branch of the Daughters of Columbus, the Society of the Holy Living Rosary and the Sons of St. Vitus.

WEBBER GETS BACK STOLEN PROPERTY

Police Chief Traces 'Swag'
of Burglar Trio and It Will Be Returned to Local Owners

Police Chief J. B. Webber not only "rounded up" the three youthful burglars who had been entering stores in La Crosse but today he succeeded in getting back practically all of the stolen property.

Through the express offices he traced every mysterious package and a suitcase billed to Wausau, and shipped the day after the Euler Drug store and Roth cigar store robberies, proved to contain most of the loot.

The burglars were sentenced to three years each in Waupun by Judge E. C. Higbee.

Refused to Attack Calmette
In defense of Caillaux, Emile Labeyrie, now referee in the bankruptcy courts, but former chief of cabinet when Caillaux was minister of finance, testified that the minister repeatedly refused offers of information damaging to Calmette which he might have used in reply to the editor's attacks.

After the publication of the "Thy Jo" letter Labeyrie said it was his impression that Mme. Caillaux showed more concern than her husband.

"Calmette will not head me off," the witness said. M. Caillaux told him. "Whatever the nature of his attacks, I shall continue to do what I consider right—even if he kills me."

"From this moment I understood the sufferings of Mme. Caillaux," said Labeyrie.

"Like Hunted Animal"

Von Del Bos, editor in chief of "Le Radical," an important morning paper, testified that he was in Caillaux's office the day of the shooting when Mme. Caillaux came in. Guardedly, Mme. Caillaux told him of her fears as to the publication by Le Figaro of certain private letters.

"She appeared greatly depressed, nervous and agitated. She reminded me of a hunted animal," said Del Bos.

Through Edmond du Mesnil, editor of Le Rappel, it was established that the cause of Mme. Caillaux's extreme nervousness and depression was due to fear of the publication of these letters and not some other document.

Builds Defense

Through witnesses called to the stand, slowly but surely the celebrated Maitre Labori built up his defense for the beautiful wife of the former prime minister who shot Gaston Calmette to death. She was described as acting like a "hunted animal" a few hours before the shooting.

Her nervous depression and agitation and the expression of her fears that Calmette would soon publish personal letters Caillaux had writ-was immediately followed by a demonstration on the part of friends of the dead editor.

Calmette Counsel Protest

Counsel representing the Calmette interests protested violently, declaring the trial was "becoming a political whitewashing" for Caillaux.

Labori had demanded just before adjournment yesterday that the prosecutor state whether papers were in existence attacking the honor of Caillaux and declaring he would withdraw from the case unless an answer was forthcoming. He accepted the statement of Herbaux and Caillaux returned to the stand.

The former prime minister vigorously defended his patriotism. He challenged any one to show that he had ever acted with any thought other than for the glory and ad-

Caillaux threatened to send his seconds to Calmette three months before the trial was shot, so Auguste Avril, a Figaro reporter, testified.

Make it "Yellowstone" this Summer. Why Not?

If you have never been there go this Summer. If you have—don't need to urge you to go again—you will anyhow. You can talk about your "trips to Europe," but right here in good old U.S.A. is the world's wonderland of beauty and interest. Just imagine falls nearly twice as high as Niagara, then a 1,700 foot chasm with sides a riot of color that rivals the glory of the rainbow! You'll never cease to wonder at "Old Faithful" Geyser—the magnificent mirrored lakes; and on every hand scenery that defies description. You will surely delight in the stage coach navigation, reminding you of the frontier days. And then I would like to tell you about the attractive and comfortable hotels and permanent camps. Leave it to me and I'll plan every part of the trip—there and back—and take the details of preparation and starting off your hands. It's a part of the service of the road—"The Burlington Route" (C. B. & Q. R. R.). I shall appreciate it if you will stop in at the office or write and get our folder about Yellowstone Park with a splendid map in colors and full description.

JOHNSON CROSSED IN KRAFT TROUBLE

Ebbets, Owner of Newark Club, Gives in to Demands of Players' Fraternity; Johnson Vexed

BY HAL SHERIDAN

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

NEW YORK, July 22.—That Ban Johnson, autocratic ruler of the American league was "crossed" by the club owners of his circuit for the first time yesterday when the players' "strike" was averted, leaked out today in the aftermath of the "crisis."

The action of C. H. Ebbets, president of the Brooklyn National league club and also owner of the Newark International league franchise in buying Player Kraft was taken without Johnson's knowledge, it has been learned. The fiery leader of the younger major circuit wanted to fight it out with the baseball players' fraternity. For the first time in the league's history, the magistrates asserted themselves and forced Johnson to bow to their will. They wanted no baseball players' strike and they refused to take the chance of one.

Johnson told the club owners that "Dave" Fultz, head of the Players' fraternity, was not strong enough to swing the ball players into line. Johnson wanted to go to the mat with Fultz so they could crush him. Then, he said, there wouldn't be a repetition of this trouble.

The league members couldn't see it that way. They, too, believed that the strike would fail, but they did not want to take any chances. Ebbets was at the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria. The meeting was at the Hotel Wolcott. Johnson called Ebbets on the telephone. Just what he said, is not known, but in less than thirty minutes after Johnson had called him, Ebbets walked into the lobby of the Wolcott.

"Boys, it's all settled," he said to the assembled newspaper men. "I've bought Kraft for my Newark club and there won't be any strike."

The room where the American league meeting was being held was at once stormed. Johnson came to the door and when told what Ebbets had said, replied:

"Well, what of it? It's his affair, not ours."

Shortly afterward the American league meeting broke up.

Ebbets was the "goat." He wouldn't say anything about the telephone call he had received before he made his announcement of the deal for Kraft.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD

BY HAL SHERIDAN

Quotation from every baseball player in the country: "I would have joined the strike."

Quotation from every magnate (except C. H. Ebbets): "I would have locked the ball park and thrown the key away."

All of which makes fine talk when there ain't no strike and when both players and magnates have done nothing more than succeed in giving the game another knock.

It was rumored yesterday when things looked dark that the ivory trust was preparing a telegram of protest against infringement of their rights by both players and magnates.

Learning that the season would really be finished (business of smiling) the Boston Braves took renewed interest, walloped Pittsburgh and moved into the first division.

Matty also performed with considerable class for a youth. Taking up the burden with the score tied in the ninth he held the Reds hitless over an extra stretch to 13 innings and then drove out the hit which won the game.

The Cubs held on by downing the Phillies. They waited until the eighth inning before slipping over the winning punch.

Three singles in a row off Mitchell in the eleventh inning nalled the first game of the Nap-Athletic double header for the Mackmen.

The second game wasn't so hard to get and the Athletics took a tighter grip on first place.

Walter Johnson hung up another shutout. The White Sox happened to be the team to get in his way. Acosta, Griffith's 18 year old Cuban, drove out a triple and two singles in four times up.

The Yanks got the range and drove out 13 hits off the best Hugh Jennings could offer.

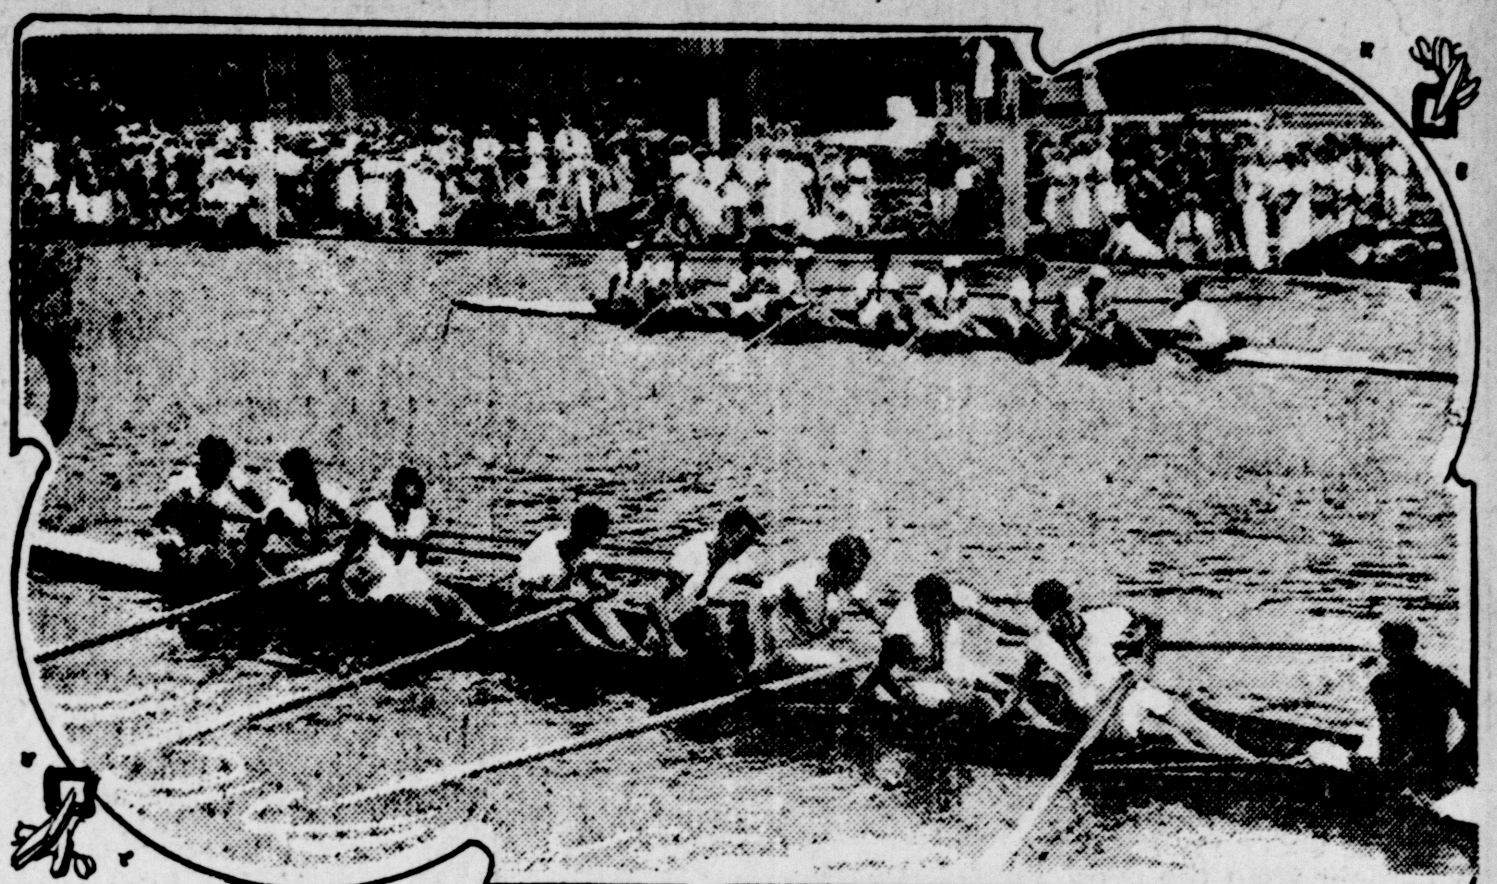

After being shut out for six innings the Cardinals did a quick neat job of butchering Pfeffer of the Dodgers. Five runs were hammered across in the sixth.

DREYFUSS WANTED STRIKE

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 22.—Barney Dreyfuss wore glum look today because Davy Fultz's strike was averted. This is what Barney had to say: "Really I'm sorry the strike was called off. I had a lot of cleaning up to do. Had the players walked out their action would have wound up their contracts and saved a lot of bother."

A current report which Dreyfuss has denied, is that the Pirate chief has asked walters on eleven of his players.

FOREIGN MARKETS

New York Stocks
NEW YORK, July 22.—Active issues on the Stock Exchange showed fractional declines at the opening today. New Haven leading with a decline of two points to 51, reflecting sentiment regarding the proposed anti-trust suit ordered by the president. New York Central was off 3/4 opening at 85 1/2. Reading was down 1/2 at 162 and Rock Island fours opened 1 1/4 off at 22, a new low.
Other declines were small and there were fractional recoveries at the end of a few minutes.
11 a. m.—The market was quite dull towards the end of the first hour but the tone was strong and a bear pressure did not succeed in dislodging stocks. A bear raid on Missouri Pacific drove that stock down to 9 1/4, duplicating its low record. New Haven was quoted at 52.
Noon.—There was some bear pressure in the second hour but stocks held up as well as could be expected in view of the uncertainty in regard to a rate decision.
Lehigh Valley was sold down, in sympathy with the Rock Island issues, but the amount of selling was small.

Chicago Grain Review

CHICAGO, July 22.—Wheat opened steady and then advanced, gaining 1/2 to 3/4 in the forenoon session today. Higher cables, based on unfavorable Russian crop news, fear of black rust damage in the northwest and a dispatch from Minneapolis reporting that about 100,000 acres of wheat was beaten down by a great hail storm that extended from Saskatchewan into North Dakota, all helped the bull market. The northwest hail storm was reported the worst in years.
Corn traders ignored the weak cables and prices were a shade to a 1/4 higher at the start. Further slight advance was registered in the deferred months during the forenoon, July easing off a shade. Oats had a dip early in the day but northwest houses bought freely and restored prices to about last night's closing figures. Provisions were easier under the sales by big stock yards houses.

Wheat bulged in the afternoon gaining 1/4 more for July, 1/4 for September and 1/2 for December. Corn was influenced somewhat by the advance in wheat and gained 1/4 to 1/2 in the afternoon trading. Oats futures also shaded higher. Provisions closed dull and almost at noon prices.

IDENTIFY SLAIN WOMAN

GALVESTON, Texas, July 22.—The murdered woman found half buried on the beach here yesterday was today identified as Mrs. Alma Johnson, wife of a Dallas carpenter. How she came to be shot remained a mystery. The police were seeking the woman's husband, who had disappeared with their two children.
A man can't always square himself, even with the assistance of cube root.

A CHARMING ARRANGEMENT OF THE POPULAR LONG TUNIC

We have had many extreme and unusual style features the last season or two; some have been really clever and attractive, and others not as pleasing, but none have caught on and become generally popular as the Russian and boot-top tunic. These tunics are plain, draped or gathered according to the fancy of the wearer; some are set on a deep yoke which fits smoothly about the hips, and then again the yoke is draped in giraffe effect as shown in No. 8395. Dull brown taffeta fashions this costume, relieved by a brownish, Roman striped silk. The bodice is rendered effective by a pointed Japanese collar; this tunic is set on at deep yoke depth and is pointed in front after the manner of the Premet apron frock. This dress requires for size 36, 3 3/4 yards of 36-inch material for the bodice (8395) and 4 1/2 yards of 42-inch material for the skirt (8392).
A draped afternoon frock is illustrated in 8390; it is fashioned of one of the Dolly Varden taffetas and the long overskirt is caught up slightly on one side, showing a plaited underskirt of white. It is a simple design, perfectly suited to summer dances and teas. Size 36 requires in this dress 4 1/2 yards of 36-inch material.

PEOPLE ONLY WANT GOOD GOVERNMENT

Madison Alderman Tells City Officials of State that Taxpayers Want Money's Worth

MADISON, Wis., July 22.—"The mere fact that taxes are high or low does not necessarily mean that a municipality is either well or poorly governed. The question is, are the people getting their money's worth?" This standard of measuring the cost of government was argued by Alderman Frank W. Lucas of Madison before the League of Wisconsin Municipalities today.

"In rapidly growing cities one cause of high taxes lies in the fact that municipal officials fail to forecast the future growth and needs of the city," continued Mr. Lucas, "and in a few years it is found that the lately constructed sewage system, the schools and many other utilities are too small and are so constructed that they cannot be enlarged, but must be wholly reconstructed, thus entailing great waste. Officials are not wholly to be criticised because they cannot forecast such conditions, but in many cases, and with a little foresight, they can make such provision, and the city be prepared to meet these conditions at a slight additional cost.

American Privilege
Mr. Lucas said that denunciation of public officials in whom is vested the right to levy taxes is certainly an American privilege. He intimated that the degree in which the privilege has of late been exercised needed no comment. "He said that the last two decades has witnessed a rapidly increasing cost of city government.

"It is true regardless of party," he said, "and the increase continues although changes occur in party control."

County and City
Larger representation of cities on the county board was considered at the opening session yesterday afternoon. The matter came up upon the motion of former Mayor F. H. Crumpton of Superior, who proposed the appointment of a committee to formulate a report on the subject. Ald. Henry Smith of Milwaukee said that Milwaukee had solved the problem by basing the city's representation on the county board on assembly districts rather than by wards. He said that before this apportionment was made, one ward in the city of Milwaukee having a population of 64,000 had two representative on the county board, while the village of South Milwaukee, with 10,000 population, had four members on the board. The change to the assembly district basis had given the city its proper ratio of representation, he said. The Crumpton motion for a committee on the subject was adopted.

MEDIATION HARD IN RAIL AFFAIRS

Federal Arbitrator Says Reconciling Men and Employers Is Board's Hardest Task

CHICAGO, July 22.—Little progress has been made by federal mediators attempting to bring about a settlement of the dispute between 80,000 employees and the western railroads, it was learned today, after two days of hearings.

"We are bound not to divulge anything said in our conferences," said Commissioner Chambers today, "but I believe this is the most difficult piece of mediation that has ever confronted the commission."

BARRELS OF BEER MUST BE FILLED

MADISON, Wis., July 22.—Short weight beer barrels are under the displeasure of the state department of weights and measures. There have been recent prosecutions in Milwaukee, and the Madison breweries are now re-coopering all empty barrels before refilling. Shrinkage often causes a shortage of several quarts in a barrel, and in large barrels has been known to deplete the contents by four or five gallons. In ordinary cases shrinkage is said to cause 50 cents worth of short weight in a barrel. By replacing one stave with new, the condition is remedied. Another cause of short weight is wearing away of the wax substance sprayed into the interior to form a lining for the wooden staves.
